

DEREK KIMPTON

After Halton I was posted to RAF St Atan (W), where I worked in the Link Trainer for a while, and was then attached to RAF Rufforth to carry out mobile servicing on Trainers on stations in the area Doncaster, Newcastle, Hull and Southport and two University Squadrons. I then moved to Celle, Germany where I worked in the M.T. section, then to Butzweilerhof working on Airfield Power Units. From there I was posted to RAF Ballykelly for a few months before being moved to HMS Sea Eagle in Londonderry to service Marine Craft. At the end of this tour I moved back to England to RAF Gaydon where I did my resettlement training before taking demob.

In civilian life I started work with Rolls Royce on Instrumentation of Test Beds, then I moved C.E.G.B. where I did similar work until my retirement at age 60. In retirement I enjoy Canals and Caravanning.
